

Handwritten Arabic text on the left page of an open manuscript. The text is densely packed and includes several lines of script. A large, faint watermark reading "King Fahd University" is visible across the page. The text appears to be a collection of sayings or a treatise, with some lines starting with "عن" (from) and "قال" (said).

Handwritten Arabic text on the right page of an open manuscript. The text is densely packed and includes several lines of script. A large, faint watermark reading "King Fahd University" is visible across the page. The text appears to be a collection of sayings or a treatise, with some lines starting with "عن" (from) and "قال" (said).